

Environmental Justice and Climate Change: Turkey, Tibet and Beyond

Yonten Nyima

Human Geographer specializing in Tibetan pastoralism; he draws from political ecology and political economy in examining China's ongoing development and environmental policies in Tibet.

Özge Yaka

Alexander von Humboldt PSI Fellow, University of Potsdam; her work on local community struggles against hydropower plants in Turkey converges social movement studies, critical social theory, theories of justice, gender studies and phenomenology.

Bethany Tietjen

PhD Candidate, Center for International and Environment Resource Policy, The Fletcher School, Tufts University; she is studying the links between climate change, migration, and food security.

Friday, April 22, 1:00 pm
Register here.

SCHOLARS AT RISK NETWORK

 protection  advocacy  learning

Tufts UNIVERSITY

THE INSTITUTE FOR GLOBAL LEADERSHIP

Shaping a Better World through Research & Action

Wellesley Centers for Women

THE FREEDOM PROJECT